

Proceedings of Scientific Symposia

EVPC Scientific Symposia are in the form of advanced continuing professional education workshops i.e. cutting-edge reviews of recent progress and future expectations in selected topics.

18th September, 2008 EVPC Annual Meeting: Bristol (UK)

‘Parasite control and climate change’

Convenors: Professor Richard Wall and Dr Eric Morgan, University of Bristol Veterinary School, UK.

S Mas-Coma, Valencia, Spain

Key note address:

Effects of climate and global changes on animal and zoonotic helminthoses, with emphasis on fasciolosis and schistosomosis.

F Kenyon and N Sargison, Moredun Research Institute, Scotland

Clinical observations on the possible effects of climate change on sheep nematode parasitism.

C Genchi, University of Milan, Italy

Climate and vector-borne diseases in Europe, the example of Dirofilaria infection.

F Beugnet, Merial Animal Health Ltd, Lyon, France.

Emerging arthropod borne diseases in carnivores.

S Shaw, University of Bristol Veterinary School, UK

Canine leishmaniosis in the UK: a disease waiting for a vector?

Proceedings

The proceedings of this meeting are published in

Veterinary Parasitology (2009) 163(4): 263 - 305

Subscribers to ScienceDirect will be able to access these papers electronically at www.sciencedirect.com.